MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Support

SUBJECT : Weekly Report of the Office of Training

1. Need for Agency Speaker at Naval War College

A recent experience at the Naval War College by ADDI Ed Proctor serves as a reminder of the frequently misunderstood roles of the civilian and military in government command and control. While serving as a resource panel member for sessions attended by some 500 senior Naval officers in the Senior Officers' Seminar, Dr. Proctor and other Washington-based civilian officials were surprised at the intensity of the old civilian vs. military arguments in crisis situations. Student speakers from the floor at Newport reflected such a gross misunderstanding that at one point a State Department panelist walked out of the room in disgust.

The Agency student at Newport told Proctor there is an urgent need for a good presentation of the Agency's mission and functions. When this point was raised recently with Colonel White, he indicated that while an invitation to speak at Newport should properly originate with the College his afterthought is that "perhaps we ought to invite ourselves" next year to keep the record straight.

4. Brookings Visit Scores Again

The 28 June Headquarters visit by members of the Brookings Conference for Business Executives on Federal Government Operations seemed to win the same warm approval as previous Brookings visits have. Mr. John Larsen, Brookings Course Chairman for the group, told an OTR representative that a large number of the businessmen expressed highly favorable comments and how impressed they were with the CIA visit.

5. Agency Students to Swarm AFSC Next Month

Armed Forces Staff College advises that a fifth special space had been approved for CIA for the 1968 fall session. Thus, the Agency will have nine officers in the AFSC beginning in August. These extra five spaces are a one-time allowance only and are not considered a precedent for additional spaces in subsequent terms at the College.

6. Two Nominees for DOD Computer Institute

The Department of Defense Computer Institute has again allocated two spaces to the Agency for the next Senior Executive Course (29 July - 2 August). One has been offered to O/DDS () and the second, 25X1A9a with O/DDS concurrence, to O/DDS&T. Deputy Director/ 25X1A9a OEL, who had to be cancelled from the May course, may fill this space.
